

Historical Battles Storyboard Templates

How to create your storyboard:

1. Choose the right template. If your battle scenes are fairly simple and can be explained through drawings, choose one with more picture spaces. If each scene needs lots of writing to explain events, choose one with more space for writing.
2. Not every single event can be covered in a storyboard so decide on the main events of the battle. Count them. You may wish to give each event a sub-heading and write these on a scrap piece of paper.
3. Draw each scene. Do this lightly in pencil first so you can rub out any mistakes.
4. Write a brief summary of each picture. Remember, space is limited so try to include only the most important bits. Check the spelling of any historical vocabulary before you start writing. Remember to use correct punctuation and your neatest handwriting.
5. Colour in your storyboard, using vivid colours to make it look attractive.
