

One stunningly sunny morning, Ella, her mum and her little sister Ava were exploring the mystical museum. "Wait here for one second I just quickly need to go to the toilet," whispered the mum as she waddled over to the other side of the museum. Ava looked at her big sister and asked,

"Hmmm. What should we do I'm already bored of waiting." Before Ella could answer Ava's hazel eyes widened in astonishment and she stared at a book. Without a second of thought her blonde hair flowed as she ran towards the little book.

"Wait! Mum said to stay here! What even is that anyway?" exclaimed Ella. Ava didn't even answer, she just stared at the dusty, ancient book. Ella came over to look at the book. With no hesitation, her sister opened the book.

Enormous, terrifying rhinos came crawling out the book." Ahhh what did we do! Why is this happening? "screamed Ava running for cover. The rhino's mammoth feet stomped on many priceless artefacts. People came running for the exit. "Wait the book's called the history of Rhinoceroses! It says something else but I can't read it the rhino is blocking it!" screeched Ella. But she didn't realise her sister was in the grasp of the rhino's teeth. She couldn't wail or else she would anger the rhino even more. As soon as she looked up her sister was being held by the mouth. She knew the only way to save her was by seeing what was on the book. She grabbed an animal toy from the gift shop and threw it so it distracted the rhino. Then stealthily she crept up to the book and in block capitals it said SHUT THE BOOK. So in a blink of an eye she slammed the book shut. Everything around them faded into non-existence. Her beloved sister was back! Her mum came back up to them and asked what happened to their clean clothes. They explained everything on the way back home.
