

WALT: Change the ending of the story

WALT: Change the ending of the story

WALT: Change the ending of the story

WALT: Change the ending of the story

Characters

Travel

How can we change the ending of the story?

WALT: Change the ending of the story

Lars and Henry walked down to the beach bright and early the next morning to meet Marcus and find out how he might be getting home. Lars waited patiently, not long after a pale, pink and grey dolphin appeared, leaping through the ocean towards the beach. The dolphin had a long mouth and big long fin on it's back. "Hello, my name is Deborah." squeaked the dolphin, Lars gave Harry a big, long hug and climbed on to Deborah's back. Lars had lots of fun being thrown up and down as Deborah leaped in and out of the water, he could not wait to see his father again. They travelled for hours and hours, eventually the weather began to change and the water started to get colder. Finally, Lars could see a white, fluffy polar bear in the distance.

